

CA After Bcom in India: Eligibility, Benefits & Similarities

The most preferred choice of commerce graduates who aspire to have a career in high finance and accounting is to pursue a CA after B.Com. The Chartered Accountancy course, offered by the Institute of Chartered Accountants of India (ICAI), has broad career prospects in auditing, taxation, and corporate finance. This will reduce the duration of CA course after B.Com on a very large scale and will be a smart and efficient career move. And as long as one is willing to work hard and be dedicated, CA after B.Com will be an excellent pathway for success.

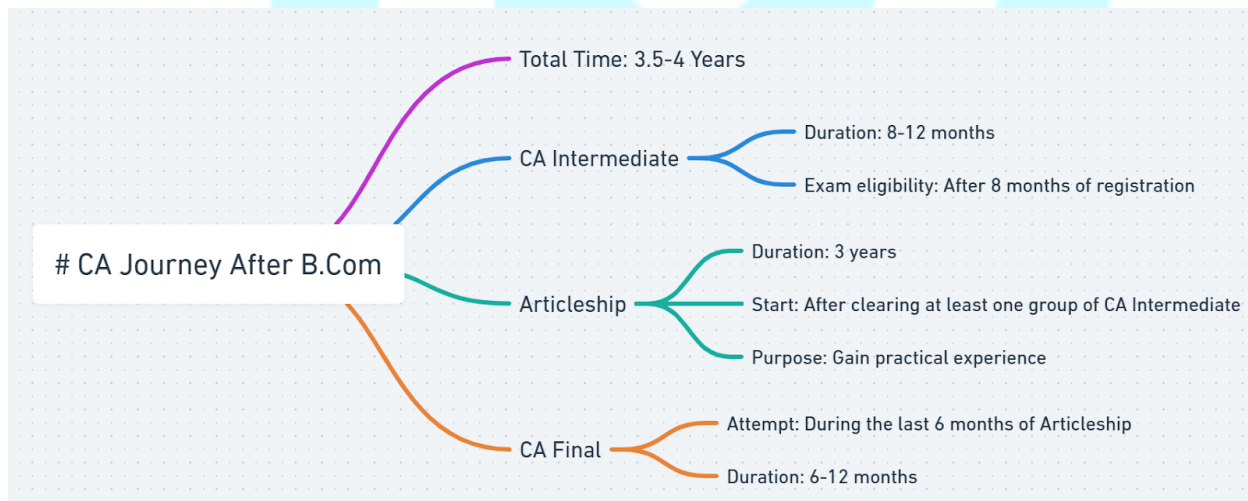

CA After B.Com

CA after B.Com is a course pursued after the completion of a B.Com degree. B.Com graduates get direct entry to the course and can bypass the CA Foundation level, directly entering the CA Intermediate course. This pathway reduces the total time taken to become a CA, making it an attractive option for those seeking advanced qualifications in finance and accounting.

How Many Years Are Required for CA After B.Com?

It completely depends on the efficiency with which you clear every level of the course. The total time needed to complete CA after B.Com is 3.5-4 years in the case of a focused candidate with Articleship included.

1. CA Intermediate: Both groups of CA Inter take around 8-12 months. Candidates can appear for exams after 8 months of registration.
2. Articleship: This provides 3-year mandatory practical training after the clearance of at least one group of CA Intermediate, after which actual practical experience would be provided.
3. CA Final: Candidates can attempt CA Final in the last 6 months of the Articleship. Typically, one may clear the CA Final after an Articleship in 6 to 12 months.

CA After B.Com Eligibility Criteria 2025

To pursue a CA after B. Com, a candidate needs to fulfill the eligibility criteria set by ICAI for the direct entry scheme.

1. Academic Qualification: The minimum percentage aggregate required is 55% to enter the courses directly, as long as graduates of B Com, while the minimum aggregate percentage of 60% applies to others.
2. CA Foundation Exemption: B.Com graduates are eligible for direct admission to the CA Intermediate course, thereby not appearing for the CA Foundation examination.
3. Practical Training: One is required to undertake four weeks of the integrated course on Information Technology and soft skills before applying for an articleship.

Why Pursue CA After 12th or B.Com?

CA after B.Com or after class 12 is simply a matter of choice. Your preferences will serve as the guiding principles. Both have their prospects, but such factors as time, money, and career alternatives come in.

1. Exploring Opportunities: It's that important phase of college life where one grows both personally and learning-wise. And if you love these experiences, then CA after B.Com is the ideal choice. And if you just want to enter CA right from Class 12, that also works.
2. Duration Understanding: Understand how much time will be required. The Foundation Route normally takes 4-5 years, while the Direct Route may take about 3 years. However, getting a bachelor's degree for the Direct Route pushes it to at least 6 years.
3. Considering Alternatives: Having a fallback is not a bad idea. College does expose you to so many things that can lead you to an alternate career. Thus, it keeps a safety door open in case CA does not match your long-term goals.
4. Financial Factors: CA demands investment in finance; this includes fees for tuition and study materials. Consider whether you are financially ready for either of the options. If waiting till after B. Com would make you save or plan better, then it could be a strategic decision.
5. Work Experience Impact: Think about the potential impact of work experience. If you are taking a CA after B.Com, then the opportunity to work experience during the undergraduate years may arise.

Deciding Between CA After or Alongside B.Com

CA pursued simultaneously with B.Com saves time for students because it gives them a head start in understanding advanced commerce subjects and utilizes the overlapping syllabus. But, at the same time, managing both courses can be very challenging and demands very strong time management skills to balance the workload properly.

The student directly enters the Intermediate level after taking B.Com as he is spared the Foundation level. This alternative route provides the student with a deeper conceptual base by studying B.Com but reduces academic pressure in that he now focuses only on CA. He may take some more time as he has to complete his under-graduation first.

What are the Similarities Between CA and B.Com?

Both CA and B.Com focus on core commerce concepts, so they are complementary courses.

- Shared Topics: Most of the topics of the B.Com syllabus are available in the CA Foundation Course which creates a common ground for both.
- Extended Coverage: It is a course beyond the Foundation level and sometimes even extends from the CA Intermediate and Final classes, with several topics covered by B.Com students, so, in essence, it relates even more widely.
- Depth and Complexity: Although the two curricula have similarities, CA programs are more specific in terms of financial and accounting concepts. The CA curriculum is more profound in its treatment of complex matters as compared to the CA syllabus.

Benefits of Pursuing CA After B.Com

Opting for CA after B.Com has several advantages, both academically and professionally.

1. Benefit at Direct Entry: Skipping Foundation Saves time and hassle. One moves immediately to advance level CA study directly.
2. Stronger Fundamentals: B.Com coursework lays down the proper conceptual base and provides support for studying CA Intermediate and Final, making complex topics seem easy.
3. Higher Career Opportunities: A B.Com degree in combination with CA certification opens wider job opportunities with better salary options and access to the best organizations and positions.
4. Cost-Effective: The whole CA after the B.Com fees is quite low in comparison to any other professional course, hence a cheap but high-return investment.
5. Professional Growth: Careers available to the CAs are vast-from financial advice to heading up corporations with a long-term, stable foundation.

CA After Bcom FAQs

1. CA course duration after B.Com?

Normally, a CA course is taken 3.5-4 years after B.Com which covers 3 years of Articleship.

2. What is the CA after B.Com fees?

Approx. ₹1.5 to ₹2 lakhs for the whole course covering registration, exams, and training for CA after B.Com.

3. How to become CA after B.Com?

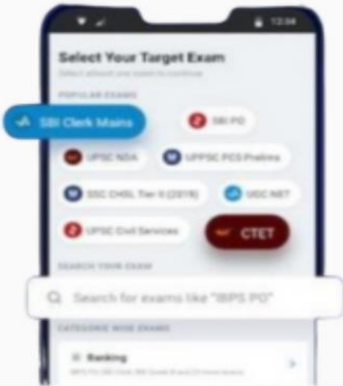

Registration under the direct entry route CA Intermediate completed, Articleship finished and cleared CA Final.

4. CA or B.Com: Which one is better after 12th?

Both of them are fine. Pursuing CA after B.Com is alluring as Foundation level is omitted and purely CA is joined.

5. Is there an opportunity to pursue CA after the completion of B.Com degree in 2024?

Yes, any graduate eligible for B. Com can enroll for the CA Intermediate course straight away in 2024 under the guidelines issued by ICAI.

Join The Plutus Education

ACCA Newsletter

Boost your Exam Preparation

Join Now

Download Broucher

